SOMETHING FOR EVERY GARDEN—EVERYTHING FOR SOME GARDENS

An Important Gardening Year

Not in years has there been a time when the mental relaxation, the physical benefit, and the enjoyable recreation of gardening will mean so much to us all. Nothing we can do will help as much during the strain and stress of current years. Nothing will yield such dividends for the time and investment.

The thrill and pride of development of something beautiful—the physical benefit gained and the satisfaction of accomplishing something in the way of home development—are rewards that come to us in working with plants and flowers. The investment of time and expenditures, when considered in a monetary way, brings added values to our homes as well as intangible rewards.

Long established sources of supply are important, just as in manufacturing lines—and the opportunity to obtain a wide variety of all kinds of plants, bulbs and seeds is not to be found everywhere. We take pride in the fact that through all the years McGregors have been one of the largest plant producing establishments within our borders. For three-quarters of a century this "Year Book" has been distributed to a flower loving public.

It presents rare opportunities for plant buyers. Broad guarantees go hand in hand with purchases. All in all, one of the largest producing sources of its kind in this country stands ready to serve you and extends appreciative acknowledgment of a wonderful Horticulture and Floriculture progress through your gardening interests. May the year of 1942 be your best Garden Year.

Unusual Rose, Roselandia, 24c

On this page and page three we have listed some of the best monthly blooming own root roses that can be produced, and which fit best into the varying conditions in all the states in the Union. They make rose growing easy; they eliminate the troubles that come to some of the less experienced rose growers.

On pages 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, we list Roses of 1, 2 and 3 yr. size. All of the plants of the one and two year size offered are plants grown on their own roots and all three year plants are field grown budded stock. For the more experienced Rose growers in sections north of Tennessee, particularly the inland sections of the country, and for those willing to make a little greater investment, the heavy budded Roses are recommended. Budded Roses are budded on stronger root systems than the particular variety carries.

satisfy that allure for charm and elegance in the home grounds that the finest furnishings give to the interior of our homes. Their evergreen habit, striking color of foliage, symmetrical verdurous beauty, ruggedness, adaptation to many uses; growing anywhere with tolerance for shade, ornamental, serviceable and picturesque, all to the extent of making them representative of greatest plant values.
